

MADISON, FANNIE LILLIAN
CALHOUN TIMES JUN 4, 1885

The trial of Cluverious at Richmond, Va., of the accused Fannie Lillian Madison, is still attracting a vast deal of attention all over the country. The woman was drowned in the reservoir. In the struggle that preceded the plunge, the murderer's watch chain was broken and a peculiar watch key was dropped on the ground. By this slight note of guilt will probably be proven on Cluverious. It is next to impossible for a murderer ever to cover up his tracks.
