3	Athens-Clarke County Library	Athens-Clarke	If the marriage records or other local records especially handwritten records are to be digitized I think it will be essential that the local historical and/or genealogical societies be asked to proofread after the initial digitization and OCR work is done. They will be familiar with local names that may be misinterpreted by those unfamiliar with the area. Also unless training in deciphering old handwriting is provided to initial workers in project there will be lots of errors which even proofreading by local may not totally compensate for.

32	GA Local and Family History Dept. / Atlanta-Fulton Public Library System	Fulton	Our Archives are primarily concerned with the history (1867-present) of the Atlanta-Fulton Public Library System and its predecessor institutions (Young Mens Library Association the Carnegie Library the Atlanta Public Library). We hold very few primary documents of other types. Our holdings do include a collection of books artifacts and photographs bequeathed to the library by the estate of John Marsh husband of Margaret Mitchell.
33	Gilmer County Library / Sequoyah Regional Library System	Gilmer	The Gilmer County Genealogical Society collected and sent a large number of newspapers to the Georgia Newspaper Project SEVERAL YEARS ago. Persons who loaned the papers were told they would be returned to them within months. I understand there have been problems but I think it is important to realize that incidents such as this damage the credibility of your project. Organizations and individuals who loan items for digitization will want to know that the items will be returned to them in a timely manner.

70	Statesboro Regional Library System	Bulloch	The Genealogy Department of Statesboro Regional Library has more than 100 items that we sell. Many of these were transcribed/compiled by volunteers to this department with the idea of helping to fund the department since it does not come under the umbrella of the budget for the library. In other words what we sell goes back into the department to fund its operation.
