Examinations!

Athens is a dry (?) town. This means we have Prohibition here.

The Reporter is only a dollar a year. Subscriptions payable in advance.

The measles are raging in the University. One new case broke out last night.

X. Y. First Skull, an old University boy, was with his friends on the 19th. He thinks of entering the Law Class.

The large gate to the Campus was smeared over with paint last night by some careless students. The Faculty will not stand such as this any longer.

The Georgia Legislature may be expected to meet in Atlanta this year as usual.

The outlook for an appropriation to the University is not at all encouraging.

Speaking of "Snakes," "Rats," etc., we leave for Europe soon. The trip will, no doubt, be attended with many joys to us.

Mr. Rainwater made his first speech in the Phi Kappa Society last Saturday. For an hour before his name was called his majestic form was in a shutter. Everybody expected Mr. Rainwater to fail, but strange to say he fairly shook the building with eloquence.

UNFORTUNATE.

- I. One more unfortunate,
 Minus a rise ;
 Rashly importunate,
 Gone to the skies.

- II. Gone to a place
 Where sorrow is not ;
 Where in Infinite grace
 All math is forgot.

- III. No longer to sorrow
 In care and vexation,
 Math loses its horror
 In endless vacation.

- IV. Reckless unfortunate,
 Thy tale is told ;
 Rashly importunate,
 Peace to thy soul.
