A BOY.

A DOG.

A CAN.

A BOY.

A DOG.

A CAN.

Can the Dog run?

The Dog can run, but he does not run now.

Does the Boy see the Can?

The Boy sees the Can and he will seize it

The Boy likewise sees the Dog.

The Dog does not catch on to the Fun, but the Boy catches on to the Dog.

Why does the Boy catch the Dog's tail?

You shall see. He has tied the Can to the Dog's tail and is waiting for the Fun. See the Dog run!

A CAP.

A COAT.

A BADGE.

Is there something in the clothes?

There is. It is a Cop.

What has he in his hand?

That is a club.

Does he strike people with the club?

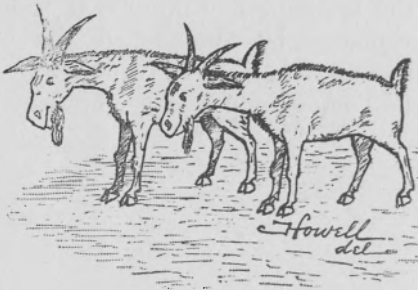

No; it is not made for striking; the Cop plays with the club to keep himself awake.

What else does he do?

He keeps cows and such things off the streets, and keeps the sidewalks clear.

Oh, then, he is a Scavenger!

No, my son, he is not a Scavenger, he is a Policeman.

A GOAT.

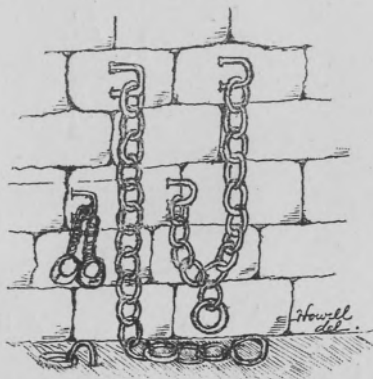

TWO GOATS.

The Goats are just alike.

Can the Goats eat?

No, the Goats cannot eat: they are marble Goats. Can the Goats butt? No the Goats cannot butt, but they can afford amusement just the same. The bad Boys paint the Goats, and the young ladies cannot pet them any more till they are washed.* Pet the bad Boys or the painted Goats? The Goats of course.

A CHAIN.

A PAIR OF IRONS.

Who has been chained?

Has some bold convict been released?

No, my son, no one has been chained.

Then what are these things doing here?

Come here, my child, and I will tell you. I must whisper, for if the truth became known it would injure the school. Pete Summey has unchained the butter and is administering chloroform to it, so he can have its hair cut, and to-morrow we shall have soup and celebrate. Are you not glad?

*Our business manager had this inserted expecting to annex a $10.00 advertisement for Sapolio. His failure to do so destroys the point of the joke.
