WE present this volume of PANDORA to the public with perfect consciousness of the fact that it is not wholly void of all those imperfections which characterize all human endeavors. In compiling the subject-matter of this book, we have endeavored to select those facts and events which to our mind, best serve to exemplify the student life of this college year. How well we have accomplished this endeavor we leave to the judgment of the reader. Our effort has been to please rather than to instruct, and to us the work has been a pleasant task.

With this we present to you Vol. XI. of PANDORA, and ask for it only that generous liberality which it has been PANDORA'S privilege to enjoy hitherto.
