The Storm.

---

A low, rumbling sound ; a sudden, sharp blast ;
A strong wind roars like a fast train ;
A white streak of lightning darts quickly past ;
A lull ; and then, with a crash, comes the rain.

HOMER C. GEORGE.

Her Robe-de-Nuit.

---

Her robe-de-nuit soft rose-white eve
Puts on, wind-woven daintily ;
For gentle airs they gently weave
Her robe-de-nuit.

Such dress, perchance, now donneth she
My bright, my beauteous Genevieve—
O love, I swear, I love but thee.

For peri fair, or elfish deev,
Ne'er dreamed such rose-white symmetry,
As when to her doth simply cleave
Her robe-de-nuit.
