PUBLISHED THIS MONTH

TITLE: THIRD SERIES: EIGHTEENTH CENTURY VIGNETTES

AUTHOR: Austin Dobson

SUBJECT: English Literature, Social History

This third volume in Mr. Dobson's account of the less-formidable aspects of eighteenth-century literary and social history discusses the last performances of Garrick, so wracked by pain that he dreaded the sword fight in Richard III; the criticism of the novel in Colman's Polly Honeycombe; Matthew Prior's poetry; a tour of Covent Garden; Mary Lepel, Lady Hervey, an intimate of Lord Chesterfield, David Hume, and Voltaire; and a biography of Thomas Gent, printer and minor man of letters, who led a typical career on the fringes of literature. There are also essays on Dr. Mead, Puckle's "Club," Grosley's "Londres," and Sir Joshua Reynolds.

376pp. octavo

L.C. Cat. Card No. 67-29812

Unaltered reprint. (Originally published London 1896)

U.S. Price $12.50

Benjamin Blom, Inc.

New York: 4 West Mt. Eden Avenue, Bronx 10452