The City of Athens.

Some of the Striking Points in Regard to Her Resources and Facilities.

The city of Athens, situated within forty miles of the Blue Ridge mountains, is eight hundred feet above the sea level and has a climate so equable and salubrious that all four seasons of the year are equally delightful. The thermometer rarely registers a lower temperature than 20 degrees above zero nor does it often go as high as 94 degrees in the summer. The mean temperature is 47 degrees in the winter and 74 degrees in the summer. The annual rainfall is about 52 inches.

Athens has a population of about fourteen thousand. The census taken a few months since showed a population of 13,163, and since that time there have been many additions to the population of the city by the moving in of large numbers of families for the purpose of educating their children, as well as for the business opportunities that the city affords.

The health statistics of the city show that no epidemics of disease arise from any cause and that what little disease exists here is traceable to ordinary causes. The death rate for many years has been less than one per cent. of the population and the greater number of deaths each year are among the young children or among the people who have passed middle age. Youth and vigorous manhood and womanhood enjoy almost an immunity from death in this community.

One of the main reasons for this excellent health record is the magnificent water supply of the city. The water is taken from the Oconee river, which has not a single town or village on its banks from the water works station to its source in the mountains. The water is filtered by the best system in the world and is sold at the low rate of 15 cents per thousand gallons. The water works plant cost the city one hundred and thirty thousand dollars and there are eighteen miles of mains that extend over the main parts of the city and give ample service to the people.

The city of Athens possesses natural drainage advantages that very few cities can boast and in addition has a magnificent sewerage system that traverses more than thirteen miles of streets. The sewage is carried off by the swift current of the river below the cemetery and on account of the falls at the factory dam the back water from the point where the sewers enter the river cannot reach the waterworks plant in any way, thus making the water supply absolutely free from contamination.

Athens has a fire department consisting of a chief and fourteen men. It is equipped with the latest apparatus and has a Gamewell Fire alarm system. The records of the fire department for the past ten years show a loss of only nine per cent of the value of the property and less than three per cent of the value of the property endangered.

The city has a police department consisting of a chief, a lieutenant, a sergeant and twelve patrolmen, and the amount of crime in the city is reduced to a minimum. The sale of liquor in Athens is under the dispensary system, the dispensary being operated by the city and the profits therefrom being divided between the city and the county of Clarke.

In the educational field of Georgia Athens easily holds first place. In this city is located the University of Georgia, founded in 1801. With one hundred and twenty-five dollars the entire expenses of a year's stay at this institution may be met. The attendance this year has gone beyond all previous records. For full information concerning the University of Georgia address Chancellor Walter B. Hill.

The State Normal School of Georgia is another of Athens' splendid educational institutions. Its average annual attendance is fully six hundred. It is pre-eminently the school for the common school teachers of the state. The entire expenses of a student at this institution amount to only eighty-five dollars per annum. For full information concerning this school address President E. C. Branson.

Lucy Cobb Institute, a high grade college for girls, was founded in this city in 1858 by Gen. Thomas R. R. Cobb. As a school for the finishing of a girl's education it has no superior in the south. For full information concerning Lucy Cobb Institute address Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb, principal.

Athens has a magnificent system of city schools. This system is unsurpassed in the United States. They are maintained at an annual expense of twenty thousand dollars. Many systems of schools throughout the union have been modeled after the Athens system. For full information address Supt. G. G. Bond.

In addition to these institutions of learning there are maintained an excellent night school in the factory district and several splendid private schools.

Athens is also a great business center. The Athens Chamber of Commerce, of which Mr. M. G. Michael is president, invites the correspondence of all people desiring information of the city.

The country immediately surrounding Athens is thoroughly adapted to agriculture and quite a variety of crops are raised successfully. Cotton and corn are the chief crops, although wheat, oats, rye, barley, potatoes, fruits, etc., grow well and can be cultivated at a good profit.

Athens is one of the largest cotton markets in the state. The receipts per season average eighty thousand bales. Fully half of this cotton comes to Athens on wagons. Cotton mills can be supplied with all the cotton they need without having to send from the city for a single bale. Athens has been made a concentrating point by the railroads and thus cotton is brought here over the direct lines practically without freight.

Four railroads enter the city, viz.: the Seaboard Air Line, the Southern, the Central of Georgia and the Georgia. The city has one of the most complete and up-to-date electric street railway systems in the United States.

The volume of business in the city exceeds twenty-million dollars per annum. The wholesale trade here is something enormous, especially in groceries, dry goods and hardware.

Athens has ample banking facilities. There are two national banks here, one state bank and two savings banks, and they are in position to supply to the business of the city all the money that is demanded.

No city in the state is making as rapid strides in a business and industrial way as Athens. The future of the city is one of assured success, and to the home seeker and investor there is no other city in the state that affords so inviting a field.
