The map is a representation of two tracts of land, situate on Altamaha Creek, in the county of Clarke, the first within the yellow line containing three hundred and eighty-eight acres, was conveyed to James Jordan, administrator, in the estate of Gabriel Jordan deceased, to George Stoves in the ninth day of October, eighteen hundred and twenty-two, as will more fully appear by a deed recorded in the Clerk's office of the Superior Court of Clarke County in Book H, folio 265. This tract is known to lie, part within the bounds of a survey granted to Thomas Washington for four thousand acres, and part within the lines of a patent granted to William Blount for two hundred and ninety acres. That part within the grant to Washington was conveyed by David Menninger to said George Stoves on the second day of June, eighteen hundred and twenty-two, as will more fully appear by a deed recorded in the Clerk's office of the Superior Court of Clarke County in Book H, folio 265. This tract of land, lying between the two hundred and eighty acres, and was conveyed by George Stoves and his wife Polly Stoves to Edward Lloyd Thomas on the thirtieth day of November, eighteen hundred and twenty-two, as will appear by a deed recorded in the office of the Superior Court of Clarke County in Book W, folio 51. The part containing one hundred and thirty-three acres was conveyed by James Jordan, deceased, to the 27th day of May, 1824. The part containing three hundred and eighty-eight acres was conveyed by W.C. Jordan to the 1st day of May, 1825, and both of the tracts conveyed on the 27th day of May, 1825.
