Gainesville is the county seat of Hall County located on the Piedmont escarpment of the Blue Ridge Mountains and the trading center of Northeast Georgia. Its chief assets are in Brenau College, a ranking Women's College of the South drawing upward of 500 students from over thirty-eight states, and Riverside Military Academy, designated as one of the ten honor schools of the country by the War Department having an enrollment of over 450 students from thirty states and five foreign countries.

Transportation Facilities—

Gainesville is located on the main line of the Southern Railway midway between New Orleans and New York having 14 passenger trains daily in both directions. It is also the terminus of the Gainesville Midland Railroad which connects with the main line of the Seaboard Air Line Railway at Athens, Ga., and the Georgia Railroad at Monroe, Ga. These facilities make Gainesville easily accessible to the Seacoast and markets of the west as well as to the centers of the East and South. Gainesville is also served by the Gainesville and Northwestern Railroad, a short line railway, operating to Helen, Ga.

Highways—

Gainesville is also excellently situated in regard to highways, being on the Piedmont Air Line, the most direct and best conditioned route from Greenville, S. C., to Atlanta, Ga. The Appalachian Scenic Highway from Montreal, Canada to New Orleans, La., said to be the most wonderful scenic highway in America, passes through the city. The most direct route from Atlanta, Ga., to Asheville, N. C., by way of Tallulah Falls and Franklin, N. C., goes through Gainesville. There will shortly be constructed two East and West cross-state highways known as the Cherokee Trail and the Henry Grady Highway, the former joining the Dixie Highway at Rome, Ga., and the latter originating at Dalton, Ga. In addition to these main arteries there are several excellent roads connecting with adjacent countries.
CLIMATE—

For over fifty years Gainesville has been recognized as an ideal vacation center, owing to its pleasant climate, altitude, pure water, easy accessibility, and friendly citizens. Its altitude is 1253 feet and the average temperature for the months of May to September is 70 degrees. Its water supply is drawn from mountain springs and plays no small part in the fact that it has the third lowest death rate in the United States. Its accessibility to various points of interest in this section make it an ideal place for those desiring the pleasure of a vacation in the mountains without sacrificing the comforts and conveniences of a modern city home.

EDUCATION—

Gainesville is an educational center. Her public school system is ranked with the best in the state and is housed in modern buildings. A high school recently erected at a cost of $100,000 is on the accredited list of high schools. Reference has already been made to Brenau College and Riverside Military Academy both outstanding educational institutions. Summer camp for young ladies is also located here under the management of Brenau College and a summer school for boys is operated by Riverside Academy.

RESOURCES AND OPPORTUNITIES—

Gainesville offers many opportunities for the investor, in many diversifications. The surrounding country is adaptable for the growing of cotton, vegetables and fruit. The cotton crop of Hall County averages approximately a million dollars each year, a market for all of which as well as a good part of the crop of adjacent counties, exists in Gainesville. The mountains to the north contain many minerals such as Feldspar, Mica, Kaolin, etc., as well as large tracts of hardwoods. The Geographical location and its transportation facilities make this city a trading center for a large section, both from the standpoint of the jobber and retailer. No panics are known here and no booms have occurred, the growth of business being both constant and steady.

To the manufacturer, especially in the textile industry, Gainesville offers an exceptional location. Its railroad facilities make raw materials close to the factory’s door and also give direct access to the center of distribution of the United States and to seaports for export. Its labor is 100 per cent. American, intelligent, industrious, loyal and honest, easily trained to textile manufacturing; the wage scale is lower than that found in larger communities and other sections. Abundant hydroelectric power is available at reasonable rates. Tax exemption, both city and county, can be secured for new industries. The tax rate is low and the valuation for assessment purposes reasonable. No labor troubles have ever been known, either organized or unorganized.

SOME OTHER ASSETS OF GAINESVILLE—

A commission-manager form of government.
Twenty miles of paved streets and highways.
Motorized fire department.

INTRODUCTION

In presenting this book to the public, we wish to state that it has been our utmost desire to give the people of Gainesville a more accurate, more complete and more attractive Directory of the town of Gainesville, Ga., than any previous Directory.

We are aware of the fact, that regardless of all our carefulness that many mistakes will be found in this book, but every effort has been made to correct and avoid all errors. We beg the indulgence of the public for any mistakes that may still appear.

We wish to express our appreciation to the business and professional men of Gainesville, Ga., for their advertisements, which have made possible the publication of this Directory. Especially do we wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to O. A. McDermed and Jno. F. Blodgett, for their cooperation in issuing this book.

We hope that this Directory will meet with the kind approbation of the citizens of Gainesville.

MANN ADVERTISEMENT & DIRECTORY CO.

POPULATION

Four thousand five hundred names appear in the alphabetical list. This includes all names over 15 years of age. The population of Gainesville is seven thousand one hundred and thirty-one people, not including suburbs, New Holland and Gainesville Mills. Including these, would give Gainesville, approximately, a population of thirteen thousand.
